Move will bring 600 jobs to area

> We are excited to join the Plymouth Township community.

One of the busiest intersections in Plymouth Township is about to get even busier as an additional 600 employees move to the former Automotive Components Holdings (ACH) plant on Sheldon Road at M-14.

The plant is being revamped to suit the needs of Troy Design & Manufacturing (TDM), which supplies prototype tooling, manufacturing engineering and parts manufacturing services. The company is consolidating employees from three locations at the Plymouth Township plant. The move is expected to be complete at the end of the year.

President and Chief Executive Officer of Troy Design & Manufacturing John Lowery said in a prepared statement, “”This consolidation allows TDM to leverage all of its resources in a single facility. We are excited to join the Plymouth Township community.”

The TDM facilities in Redford, where more than 500 are employed, and the Warren plant where about 100 are employed, will continue to operate during the plant remodeling. The 1 million square foot plant was acquired from Ford Land Development Corp.

The ACH plant was formerly a Visteon plant and before that a Ford plant. It most recently housed Detroit Thermal Systems which moved the majority of the operation to Romulus.

Community effort

Food packaging event draws volunteers from throughout area

Nearly 1,300 volunteers of all ages filled the gymnasium at the Plymouth Arts and Recreation Complex last Saturday to package food for the Greater Plymouth Service Project, supporting the Kids Against Hunger Coalition.

Volunteers from the Colonial Kiwanis Club of Plymouth along with the evening Kiwanis Club, area church groups, high school groups, Rotary Club members and Scouts, among other community groups and individual volunteers joined the effort to pack 126,000 meals for the needy during the day-long project.

The volunteers packed the meals in a show of force noted event Chairman Dave Siegrist.

The Greater Plymouth Service Project took nine months to organize through the Community Foundation of Plymouth, which also chairs. Siegrist also thanked the Plymouth Community Chamber of Commerce and Doug Wallace for their help with the enormous effort, along with all the volunteers who worked during the day.

Volunteers worked in about 20 assembly line configurations, packaging the food into boxes for delivery. More than $35,000 was raised in donations to support the effort and organizers said enough bulk food was purchased for the meals. One packet, which costs about $1.68, will provide six meals. Preparation usually involves only boiling and serving.

The packaged meals will be delivered to the Schoolcraft College food pantry, the Plymouth Canton Community School anti-hunger backpack program, the Wayne-Westland Salvation Army, Veterans Haven, Trinity Church food pantry and the main recipient, the Kids Against Hunger Coalition. School budget includes increased class sizes

The Plymouth Canton Community Schools budget for 2016-17 includes increased class sizes at most schools along with other cost cutting to compensate for a $3.7 million deficit.

The proposed budget also includes an additional five school days, employee furloughs and a $150,000 credit from Durham transportation services.

Superintendent of Schools Monica Merritt presented the $155.2 million budget to members of the board of education last week.

Measures proposed to compensate for the revenue deficit include increasing class sizes in upper elementary, junior high school and high schools. Those increased class sizes will result in commensurate teacher layoffs anticipated at a reduction of 18.9 full-time equivalent teaching positions.

The figures estimate a student enrollment of 17,355 including 250 Schools of Choice students. The proposal also includes an increase in paraprofessionals at the schools and the return of three plant engineers to help with maintenance at the elementary schools.

The district expects to receive an increase of $120 per pupil in state foundation allotment funds which would total about $1.6 million in revenue in the budget. Officials said that funds anticipated from the Wayne County Regional Educational Service Agency were not included in the budget figures presented.

Merritt told the board members that the budget plan is balanced based on the accuracy of the revenue projections and impact of the changes suggested. She told the board members, too, that she and the district administrators are open to more discussion.

The proposed financial plan will be reviewed by the board members during a meeting May 24, and discussed at a public hearing planned for June 14. The budget is slated to be formally adopted June 28.

“We need to stabilize our district,” Merritt said. “I know we can get through this together.”

Plymouth

Lawsuit requests removal of 2 from ballot

The candidacy of Kurt Heise for Plymouth Township supervisor and Don Schnettler for township trustee have been challenged in a lawsuit filed in Wayne County Circuit Court May 13.

The court filing names Carl Berry, a former police chief, as the plaintiff in the matter. Berry claims in the filing that Heise, currently a term-limited state representative, and Schnettler, a long-time township resident, did not designate the voting precinct in which they live on their candidate affidavits of identity. Berry contends that because of this deficit, their names should not appear on the primary election ballot Aug. 2.

The court filing claims the failure to designate the voting precinct is a violation of Michigan Case Law 168.558.

Also named in the complaint are Township Clerk Nancy Conzelman and Wayne County Clerk Cathy Garrett, the Wayne County Election Commission and the Plymouth Township Election Commission. The complaint claims these defendants accepted the deficient affidavits in violation of state statutes.

Berry's suit claims that as an elector and resident of Plymouth Township he had a "clear legal right to the discharge of these duties by the Wayne County Election Commission and/or the Plymouth Election Commission." His suit requests that Conzelman immediately remove Heise and Schnettler's names from the ballot or that a court show-cause hearing be scheduled on the issue.

"This is an attempt to deny democracy in Plymouth Township orchestrated by Carl Berry along with the attorney for Rizzo Environmental Services. This has nothing to do with the petitions--the petitions are not being challenged. Don Schnettler and I, unfortunately, forgot to put the precinct information on the affidavit of identity which was notarized by the township clerk. All that is really needed is to simply amend the affidavit," Heise said.

Heise added that while he is "not concerned" he has retained an election law attorney to represent Schnettler and himself.

"Our goal is to recoup attorney fees and costs for this frivolous lawsuit," he said.

Schnettler said while he's not upset, he felt Berry's move was, "strictly harassment and an attempt to distract from the campaign."

City is seeking election workers

The City of Plymouth is looking for precinct inspectors for the August and November elections.

Staffing the polling locations on Election Day is challenging and the city clerk is looking for individuals who would like to be a part of the Election Day process.

There are several positions at the polls which require different skills, including computer experience and knowledge, and customer service skills.

> "There are several positions at the polls which require different skills...

Training is provided and new election inspectors are generally assigned to a polling location with experienced, seasoned election workers.

To qualify to become an election inspector and work at the polls on Election Day, you must meet the following criteria: Be at least 16 years of age, or if 18 years of age or older must be a registered voter in the state of Michigan; submit an Election Inspector Application to the City Clerk's office; attend election training; not be related to a candidate on the ballot; indicate your political party affiliation and not have been convicted of a felony or election crime

BELLEVILLE - ROMULUS

Under construction

Road projects planned in city this spring

Romulus officials have some good news and bad news for motorists. The good news is that four comprehensive construction projects will be under way in the city this summer. The bad news? Four major construction projects will be ongoing in Romulus this summer.

The planned construction includes a water main installation on Pennsylvania Road from Wahrman east to Wayne Road.

A new water main will be installed to improve the pressure distribution in the southern area of the city. The project will begin this week and, depending on the weather, be complete by mid-June. Only minor traffic impact is expected.

The project is being funded through the city water and sewer funds.

A second water main installation and road resurfacing is scheduled for Wickham Road from Wick Road north to Merriman Road. This project will begin later this month and should be complete by July 15.

The project includes the installation of a new water main to provide redundant service to the hotel district which is currently serviced by only one water main. This project will include a resurfacing of the roadway in the area.

Wickham Road will be open to traffic throughout the construction.

The City of Romulus water and sewer funds will be used for the water main while the resurfacing will be funded by federal aid through the State of Michigan.

An 8-inch water main in Middlebelt Road green space from Goddard Road north to Wick Road will be abandoned during a project planned to begin this week and complete by June 15.

During the work, the current services will be transferred to an available 24-inch water main and the current 8-inch water main will be grouted in place. This project, too, is funded by the water and sewer funds of the city.

There should be no impact on traffic in the area during this project.

Another water main installation and road reconstruction will take place on Wick Road from 1,500 feet west of Vining Road to 2,500 feet east of Vining Road.

This is a 48-inch water main installation and Wick Road will be reconstructed into a boulevard section of roadway. The boulevard section will be continued through the Vining Road intersection and the traffic signal at Vining Road will be upgraded and modernized.

These enhancements will allow for improved traffic flow from the I-94 Vining Road exit into the Vining and Smith road corridor. The project, according to officials, is critical to allow future development of the property north of Wick Road.

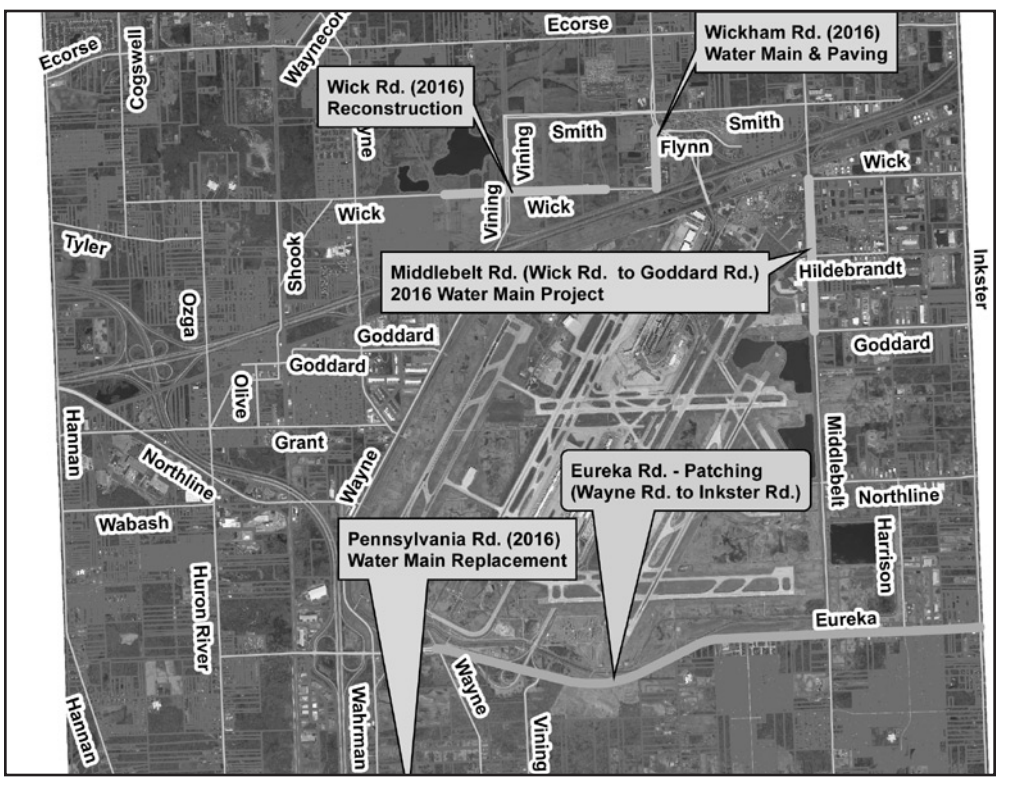
Construction is set to begin at the end of the month and should be complete by late November this year.

During construction, Wick Road from Lisa Street to 2,500 feet east of Vining Road will be closed to through traffic. Signs will be placed in the area about two weeks in advance of the project to notify motorists of the impending closure, officials said.

A detour plan will be in place throughout the construction.

The city partnered with the Great Lakes Water Authority (GLWA) on the project. Funds for the roadway portion of the project will come through the Tax Increment Finance Authority district in place. The water main costs will be paid by GLWA.

For more information on any of these projects, contact the Romulus Department of Public Works at (734) 942-7579.



Belleville commissioners interview job applicants

Douglas Dalton and Jacqueline Schank-Ulch, the only two sitting members of the Belleville Civil Service Commission, met last month for the first time to interview candidates for positions with the police department and as the new city clerk/treasurer.

Following the interviews, the two submitted their comments recommendations to Police Chief Hal Berriman and City Manager Diana Kollmeyer.

The Civil Service Commission has been a subject of controversy since the then three-member commission voted to support an employee appeal requiring the city to adhere to the Civil Service Commission handbook rules regarding payment of health care premiums for retirees. Those three commissioners, Don Bluhm, Roy Acho and Mike Loria, either resigned from or were not reappointed to their posts. Mayor Kerreen Conley had refused to appoint members to the commission and attempted to have it disbanded with a ballot question permitting a change in the city charter. That measure was turned down by voters in 2014.

Conley had not appointed any members to the commission until late last year, when she named Dalton and Schank-Ulch to the three-member body. The third post remains unfilled.

The two interviewed five applicants for the one full-time and two part-time positions with the police department.

The five interviewed included Craig Lewis of Wayne, currently with the Adrian Police Department; Nathan Collins of Livonia, who is unemployed after earning a degree in criminal justice last August; Sean Templeton of Garden City, a four-year veteran of the U.S. Marines who served in Iraq and Afghanistan and is currently employed with the Highland Park Police Department; Chris Herrick of Belleville who worked in Belleville previously before joining the Van Buren Township Police where he resigned last year and David McKeon of Canton Township who earned a degree in public safety administration, criminal justice and business. He has worked with eight other police departments.

The hiring decision will now be made by Berriman.

The three candidates seeking to become city clerk/treasurer included Patricia Loder of Milford who was deputy city clerk in Novi for 12 years; Sherri Scharf of North Carolina who serves as executive assistant to the Aiken Township manager and Nada Kattula who has worked for a Certified Public Accountant firm for 26 years.

The position will become available upon the upcoming retirement of Lisa Long.

Their interview comments were referred to Kollmeyer.

Recently, this crossing was blocked for more than 20 minutes due to the loading of new cars onto flatbeds to be transported from the automotive companies. Wayne - Westland

City marks Earth Day with dedication

Westland officials chose Earth Day for the groundbreaking ceremony at a new sports field and butterfly habitat in the city.

The groundbreaking took place at the Jefferson Barns Community Vitality Center in Norwayne April 22. State Rep. Robert Kosowski, D-Westland, was lauded by Mayor William Wild for his help in securing $175,000 in state funding for the new project. Kosowski was formerly a recreation director in the city.

"I always said, 'Let's give kids something do to," Kosowski said. "We have the Norwayne Boxing gym and now have ball fields."

Two baseball fields, a basketball court and a pavilion will be constructed at the Jefferson Barns facility. In addition, a new habitat for Monarch Butterflies was opened in the courtyard near the library in the former school building. "This is the oldest neighborhood in the city, which is celebrating its 50th anniversary. This neighborhood is over 70 years old," Wild said. "We are 100 percent dedicated to the removal of blight in the Norwayne community. There are a lot of things going into revitalization. We're happy to celebrate that and Earth Day. "

> We are 100 percent dedicated to the removal of blight in the Norwayne community.

Annette Kutnick and Dianne Richards who serve on the Wayne Metro advisory board led the butterfly garden project. The Norwayne Community Citizens Council, Westland and Wayne Metro Community Services cooperated in the effort. Both Kutnick and Richards were honored with Mission: Green awards recognizing their efforts.

Also honored were Scott Brady of Simple Recycling and Westland Community Development Deputy Director Rick Gowan. Brady was honored for his free curbside recycling of clothing and small electronics. The city receives $20 per ton for the materials his service collects. Gowan, a former building inspector, supervised the Jefferson Barns renovations, where he used and recycled materials from other city buildings in the remodeling effort.

Wild reminded the assembled crowd of the first Earth Day program in the city which was also the start of recycling effort in the city. The effort began with a "trash for cash" program at Westland Shopping Center and residents brought bags of trash to participate in the effort to recycle. Wild said the city has maintained an 80-percent participation rate for recycling and has recycled 76 million pounds of material that otherwise would have gone into landfills.

Wild About Youth Works program under way

Mayor William R. Wild is reaching out to Westland businesses to help introduce young adults to the workforce. The "Wild About Youth Works!" Program aims to prepare young adults for the workforce by teaching them the virtue of a strong work ethic, good customer service skills and financial responsibility.

The Wild About Youth Works Program, in the sixth year, is geared toward youth ages 16-18. Participants receive financial literacy training through the city partnership in the program with Fifth Third Bank. Students were also required to attend a "dress for success" event, May 4 in the Grande Ballroom of Westland City Hall, located at 36300 Warren Road.

"Our goal is to equip Westland's youth with the skills and knowledge needed to be competitive candidates for employment. Through the Wild About Youth Works Program, participants will make the investment into their future by taking the steps to learn what makes an individual employable," said Wild. "Our goal is to provide the students who take those steps with a list of 100 positions available with local businesses in various industries. As city leaders, educators and parents, it is important that collectively we all do as much as possible."

> ...it is important that collectively we all do as much as possible.

Businesses will benefit from participating in the program by attaining young, tech savvy employees who have had initial general training and education. All that is required is a commitment to interviewing and hiring at least one student and providing them with at least 16 hours of work per week for six weeks or more at the minimum wage rate or higher.

Businesses willing to participate, as well as students interested in the program, should contact Paul Motz, the director of Westland Youth Assistance, at (734) 467-7904.

Voter precincts moved from Wayne Banquet Center

Voters in Wayne precinct 3 and 6 will not vote at the Wayne Activities and Banquet Center during the upcoming presidential election in November.

Those precincts will vote at Wayne Memorial High School Alumni Arena located at 3001 Fourth St. Officials said that the banquet center building, located on Sims Street at Wayne Road, is for sale as part of the cost cutting measures implemented during the current budget deficit.

Officials said that should the building be sold before the Nov. 8 presidential election, there could be a conflict with the new owner.

To avoid any possible impact on the sale, officials opted to move the polling place.

Voters in the two affected areas will be sent a letter from the city notifying them of the change and identifying the new location and new voter identification cards to ensure proper notification prior to the election, officials said.

Questions should be referred to the office of City Clerk Matt Miller, (734) 722-2204.

New public safety director takes oath

Joshua Meier takes his takes his oath of office.

It's official.

Joshua C. Meier took his oath of office last week and is now the Canton Township Director of Public Safety.

Meier was selected for the post, created when Todd Mutchler retired and took a job with Northville Township, after a competitive internal process, officials said. His official oath was administered by Township Clerk Terry Bennett during a regular meeting of the members of the board of trustees.

Meier began his career in Canton Township by volunteering as a Canton Police Explorer during his years at the former Plymouth-Salem High School. He was later hired as a Public Safety Service Officer and began his 19-year rise through the ranks of the fire department. He worked as a firefighter/paramedic, was promoted to deputy chief, and prior to his latest promotion was Canton Township Fire Chief.

Meier is the first Canton Public Safety Director with a fire service background. In addition to his firefighting and paramedic duties, he served as a member of the local fire union board. While chief of the fire department, he simultaneously served as chief administrator of the Western-Wayne Urban Search and Rescue Team; as Vice President of Southeast Michigan Association of Fire Chiefs and served as an instructor at Eastern Michigan University Fire Staff and Command School.

Meier will be responsible for planning, administering, budgeting and continually developing the 200-person Canton Public Safety Department, consisting of 83 sworn police officers, 65 firefighters and other personnel. He will also oversee emergency management and ordinance services. His salary has been set at $127,846 annually.

Meier is a life-long Canton Township resident. He and his wife, Lisa, are the parents of two sons, Jacob, 12, and Joey, 9.

Local dancers bring home multiple honors

More than 12 weeks of hard work paid off for students from Central City Dance Center in Canton recently.

The student dancers competed against 10 studios from Michigan and Indiana in April during the Encore DCS Dance Competition in Fowlerville.

The students performed in several styles of dance including: jazz, tap, hip hop, lyrical and modern and were also divided into solo, duo/trio, small group, large group and line and production categories.

Students from Central City Dance Center won seven Diamond awards; 49 Platinum awards; 11 High Gold awards and more than 36 Overall awards in a particular category.

"Students began conditioning in September, but didn't begin working on the competition choreography until January. It took about 12 weeks to create the choreography and get it ready for competition," said Erin Kearney, one of the studio dance instructors.

Special recognition awards were given to students of Central City Dance Center for standing-out among the competition.

The Best Emotional Execution Award went to the Central City Dance Teen Competitive Group. The High Energy Award was presented to the Central City Adult Competitive Tap Team for their presentation of Proud Mary and the Most Entertaining Award was awarded to the Studio's Elite Competitive team, which comprises the top dancers at the Canton studio.

"The competition was very tough. We are proud of the accomplishments of all of our students and are proud to represent Canton Township," said Tim Smola, the owner and director of Central City Dance.

Canton residents Giovanni Succurro, age 10, and Plymouth senior Carissa Heestand, 18, as well as Brownstown resident, Parker Brudzinski, age 13, all received special scholarships to perform at the upcoming national dance competition in Charlotte, SC in July.

"After reflecting on such a successful dance 2016 season, our students are really looking forward to attending nationals," said Tamara Smola, owner and director of Central City Dance.

The Central City Summer Dance Jam begins July 12 and continues through Aug. 18. The studio is currently accepting students into a 6-week Summer Dance Jam and 3-day dance camps. For more information, visit www.CentralCityDance.com.

More than 70 dancers from Central City Dance competed in Fowlerville last month where they were awarded multiple honors.

Director Faas replied there is not specific schedule, however, in general, the project should be done during the time period of mid-June to the beginning of September. Mr. Miller asked is there a protocol for handling anonymous calls to ordinance regarding leaves blowing or barking dogs. He feels this could take police officers away from handling more important matters. Ms. McLaughlin agreed to get this policy information to Mr. Miller. Mike Grayshaw, 42207 Briarcliff Ct, inquired about the home at 42245 Saltz that is in disrepair. It has a large hole from a pool demolition. As there is no fence around the pool, he feels this is a hazard to the community. He has left several messages with the Ordinance Department. The current owner is filling the hole with metal and concrete debris. He feels this is damaging the value of his property. Ms. McLaughlin stated his concerns are valid. The Board is aware of this problem and is working with Public Safety to remedy this situation. Director Meier stated he was made aware of the problem today and started working on it immediately. He gave Mr. Grayshaw his contact information and agreed to address this matter and get this resolved. Payment of Bills Motion by Bennett, supported by Williams to approve payment of the bills as presented. Inkster

Tail waggers

Low cost pet services offered

Tail Wagger's 1990, a local 501 (C) (3) non-profit organization will be hosting a Dog License and Vaccination Program on Saturday, May 21 at the Inkster Fire Department located at 27717 Michigan Ave.

In an effort to enable resident pet owners to affordably vaccinate and license all their animals, Tail Wagger's 1990 offers packages for dogs and puppies substantially below the normal cost, Rutledge said in a prepared statement. Pet owners can receive Rabies, Distemper/Parvo and Bordetella as a package for $30 or each vaccine can be purchased individually for $12. Dog licenses are required to be purchased and sell for $10. Microchips are available and cost $30 which includes a lifetime registration which Tail Wagger's performs for the pet owner.

To encourage Heartworm testing, the first 50 dogs will receive a free heartworm test and their first month pill. After the first 50 dogs, a lower price of only $15 is being offered, but the first month pill is included in the cost. Heartworm testing results will be given on the spot along with the ability to purchase the heartworm preventative.

Residents unable to come out May 21 are encouraged to contact the Tail Wagger's Wellness Center at (734) 855-4077 to schedule an appointment.

The Wellness Center is located at 28418 Five Mile Road, between Middlebelt and Inkster at Harrison and does not charge an office visit or exam fee.

The vaccine prices will slightly vary for scheduled appointments.

"By offering the Dog License & Vaccination Program to the residents of Inkster it is with high hopes that people of all income levels will take advantage of this affordable vaccination clinic to get their pets properly vaccinated and avoid further health issues. We are excited to help the animals in the City of Inkster and will do whatever we can to get them up-to-date and heartworm tested," said Tail Wagger's Founder Laura Zain.

For cat owners, appointments can be made at the Livonia Wellness Center to receive Rabies and Distemper individually for only $12 each.

Tail Wagger's 1990 is committed to helping people help animals, Zain said. It is their ultimate goal to be able to support dedicated pet owners who are in need of assistance along with providing necessary funding for those animals in emergency situations, she added.

Investigation continues into apartment fire

Fire officials in Inkster are continuing the investigation into the cause of a fire Saturday afternoon which destroyed 36 apartment units.

Firefighters from Inkster, Wayne-Westland and Garden City battled the blaze for several hours Saturday at the Canterbury Woods Apartments on Tobin Drive near Beech Daly Road and Avondale.

Firefighters responded to the blaze within 6 minutes of the first call, which came in sometime after 1 p.m. according to Fire Inspector Bob Roths.

Firefighters were unable to immediately control the blaze which reportedly started on the second floor of one building and quickly spread to three other structures in the complex which were fully engaged in flames. The buildings apparently share an attic space which allowed the fire to spread quickly from one building to the next.

Residents reported that they were startled by the blaze and that firefighters and neighbors were forced to kick-in doors to alert residents to the danger and evacuate them from the rapidly spreading blaze.

Cleanup efforts were continuing at the site during the weekend. Many of the 100 people displaced did not have renters' insurance and are relying on the Red Cross to find them shelter and clothing in the aftermath of the blaze.

Remarkably, firefighters said, there were no injuries reported in the incident.

Roth said that while the investigation into the fire is continuing, fire officials believe the cause was accidental and do not suspect any malicious activity.

NORTHVILLE

Foundation accepting grant applications

The Northville Community Foundation is now accepting applications for grants to be awarded this fall. Nonprofit organizations and programs that benefit the community are invited to apply. Grant applications will be accepted through July 31, noted foundation Executive Director Jessica Striegle.

The Northville Community Foundation is one of more than 700 community foundations throughout the United States. Community foundations make it possible for a wide range of donors to participate in creating funds to meet present and future needs of the communities in which they serve, Striegle said. The Northville Community Foundation administers nine investment funds that are designated for a variety of community needs. The income from these invested funds is awarded through a grant application process to provide charitable funding to non-profits classified by the IRS as 501(c)(3) organizations and other eligible entities that benefit residents of the greater Northville community. Grants are made in the areas of education, health, arts, youth, senior, historical, beautification, and community benefit, she explained.

Since 1997 the Northville Community Foundation has awarded tens of thousands of dollars in grants to organizations. In 2015, grants were awarded to the Friends of Maybury State Park, New Hope Center for Grief Support, Northville Art House, Northville High School Band, Northville Historical Society, Northville Senior Adult Services, Northville Township Police Department D.A.R.E. Program, St. George Ministries and St. Mary Mercy Hospital's Behavioral Health Services Unit.

More information and the 2016 grant application can be found at www.northvillecommunityfoundation.org.

7 to vie for 4 terms on Northville board

A primary election Aug. 2 in Northville will limit the field of seven candidates seeking four, four-year terms on the township board of trustees to four Republicans and one Democrat.

The four incumbent trustees, Mindy Hermann, Symantha Heath, Marvin Gans and Fred Shadko will face challengers Daniel Biedzen and Sonia Scappaticci, all Republicans, and Dr. Ghulam Qadir, who is a Democrat. Biedzen is a write-in candidate.

Robert Nix is unopposed in his bid to retain the office of township supervisor and Marjoire Bann and Sue Hillebrand, the treasurer and clerk respectively, also face no competition in the primary election.

Biedzen said he was unaware of the filing deadline, forcing him to campaign as a write-in candidate. He is employed with the Wayne County prosecutor's office. He said his concerns include more accountability for spending in the township and more transparency, including access to all township reports, including those of the police and fire departments.

Scappaticci, the co-owner of a concrete company, is a graduate of Michigan State University. She said that one of her priorities is maintaining the current atmosphere and appeal of Northville. She said her experience with budgets and overseeing projects could be beneficial to the township. She said that while she is a conservative on tax issues but a liberal on social issues.

Qadir served as chief of psychiatry for 12 years at Oakwood Hospital in Dearborn and for another two years at Oakwood Heritage Hospital in Taylor. He is now a psychiatrist with Apex Behavioral Health in Dearborn.

He said he is a diversity candidate and that the make up of the township population is changing. He said that he has served in a number of leadership positions throughout his career.
